

National Information Directorate

20 November 2011

To whom it may concern,

As Director of the National Information Directorate in the Israeli Prime Minister's Office, it is my honor to express our support for the Israel Research Fellowship Program.

In the last few years, a number of fellows have interned in the Prime Minister's Office communications department. Without exception, each and every one of the fellows we've had the opportunity to work with was extremely capable and talented, greatly contributing to our work. We have benefited much from their time here and their contribution to the government and the country as a whole cannot be overstated.

To attest to their exemplary work, most of the fellows have been integrated into the administration in various positions following their internship.

I highly recommend this prestigious program and truly hope that it will continue to thrive throughout the government and particularly in our department.

Sincerely,
Yarden Vatikay
Director- National Information Directorate
